The United States Commercial Driver's License Program

On October 26, 1986, the U.S. Congress passed the Commercial Motor Vehicle Safety Act establishing the framework for the Commercial Driver's License (CDL) Program. The goal of the Act is to improve highway safety by ensuring that drivers of large trucks and buses are qualified to operate those vehicles on the highway. The Act retains the States' right to issue a driver's license, but establishes minimum national standards which States must meet when licensing commercial motor vehicle (CMV) drivers.

The Federal Highway Administration (FHWA) has developed and issued standards for testing and licensing CMV drivers. Among other things, the standards require that States issue CDLs to their CMV operators after the driver passes a knowledge and skills test administered by the State for the type of vehicle the applicant operates or expects to operate. Drivers need CDLs if they are in interstate, intrastate, or foreign commerce and drive a vehicle that meets one or more of these definitions:

- * Has a gross combination weight rating (GCWR) of 26,001 or more pounds, inclusive of a towed unit with a gross vehicle weight rating (GVWR) of more than 10,000 pounds; or
- * Has a GVWR of 26,001 or more pounds; or
- * Is designed to transport 16 passengers, including the driver; or
- * Is of any size and is transporting hazardous materials in an amount that requires placarding under the Hazardous Materials Transportation Act.

States may decide to waive firefighters, operators of emergency equipment and certain farmers from the CDL requirements. All active duty military drivers were waived by the Federal Highway Administrator.

States also have the option of issuing a Restricted CDL to seasonal drivers for the following specific farm-related service industries: custom harvesters, farm retail outlets and suppliers, agri-chemical businesses, and livestock feeders. Waived drivers would not be required to take the CDL skills or knowledge tests and the Restricted CDL would have reciprocity in all States. In order to revalidate the license, the State must confirm the good driving record of the driver prior to each season the driver wishes to operate a CMV with a Restricted CDL. It is also important to point out that Restricted CDL holders are subject to all CDL disqualification penalties. Due to the extremely limited issuance and use of the Restricted CDL, a sample of the document has not been included in this manual.

The Federal standard requires States to issue a CDL to drivers according to the following vehicle classification, referred to as Vehicle Groups.

VEHICLE GROUP

DESCRIPTION OF VEHICLES ALLOWED

- |                |   |
|----------------|---|
| Group A | Any combination of vehicles with a GCWR of 26,001 or more pounds provided the GVWR of a vehicle(s) being towed is in excess of 10,000 pounds.   |
| Group B | Any single vehicle with a GVWR of 26,001 or more pounds, or any such vehicle towing a vehicle not in excess of 10,000 pounds GVWR.  |
| Group C | Any single vehicle, or combination of vehicles, that does not meet the definition of Group A or Group B, but that either is designed to transport 16 or more passengers, including the driver, or is placarded for hazardous materials. |

A driver who operates special types of CMVs will also need to pass additional tests and obtain an endorsement on his/her CDL as follows:

- T - Double/Triple (Knowledge test only)
- P - Passenger (Knowledge and Skills tests)
- N - Tank Vehicle (Knowledge test only)
- H - Hazardous Materials (Knowledge test only)
- X - Combination of Tank Vehicle and Hazardous Materials

A CDL holder may operate all groups of CMVs "below" the one which his/her license specifically authorizes, provided the individual has successfully completed all applicable endorsement tests. For example, a Group A license holder may also operate "regular" Group B and C vehicles. If appropriate, he/she must also possess the requisite endorsement(s), i.e., an individual with a Class A must also have a passenger endorsement if he/she wishes to operate a Bus.

THE COMMERCIAL DRIVER'S LICENSE DOCUMENT:

A State will determine the license fee, how long the license is valid and most renewal procedures, and will continue to decide the age and medical qualifications of its intrastate commercial drivers. Interstate drivers would need to meet the long-standing Federal age and medical qualifications.

All CDLs must contain the following information:

- * the words "Commercial Driver's License" or "CDL,"
- * the driver's full name, signature, and mailing address;
- * the driver's date of birth, sex, and height;
- * color photograph of the driver;
- * the driver's State license number;
- * the name of the State of issuance;
- * the date of issuance and date of expiration of license;
- * the group(s) of vehicles that the driver is authorized to drive;
- * notation of the "airbrake" restriction, if applicable;
- * the endorsement(s) for which the driver has qualified;
- * Stickers, Privilege or Certification Cards may be issued by a State to temporarily validate the legitimacy of the CDL.

States may issue learner's permits for purposes of behind-the-wheel training on public highways as long as learner's permit holders are required to be accompanied by someone with a valid CDL appropriate for that vehicle and the learner's permits are issued for limited time periods.

OTHER PROGRAM REQUIREMENTS

BLOOD ALCOHOL CONTENT (BAC) STANDARD

There are a variety of other Program requirements which affect commercial drivers and their employers, including BAC and other Driver Disqualifications. Of utmost importance is the 0.04% BAC Standard which the FHWA established to define the alcohol level at or above which a CMV driver is deemed to be driving under the influence of alcohol and subject to the disqualification sanctions in the Act.

DISQUALIFICATION SANCTIONS

For conviction while driving a CMV, drivers will be disqualified and lose their privilege to drive for:

60 to 120 days:

- 2 or more serious traffic violations within 3 years. These include excessive speeding, reckless driving, improper or erratic lane changes, following the vehicle ahead too closely, and traffic offenses in connection with fatal traffic accidents.

One Year:

- driving under the influence of a controlled substance or alcohol, or
- leaving the scene of an accident; or
- using a CMV to commit a felony.

Three Years:

- any of the 1-year offenses while operating a CMV that is placarded for hazardous materials.

Life:

- second offense of any of the 1-year or 3-year offenses; or
- committing a felony involving the manufacture, distribution, or dispensing of controlled substance.

Violations are not cancelled for purposes of possible later disqualifications after they have served as the basis for one or more disqualification(s).

Disqualifications are applied for convictions of offenses that were committed in separate incidents.

If a CDL holder is disqualified from operating a CMV, the State may issue him/her a license to operate non-CMV's. Drivers who are disqualified from operating a CMV will not be able to get a "Conditional," "Hardship," or any other type of limited driving privilege to continue driving a CMV.

For disqualification purposes, convictions for out-of-State violations will be treated the same as convictions for violations that are committed in the home State. The Commercial Driver's License Information System (CDLIS) ensures that convictions a driver receives outside his or her home State are transmitted to the home State so that the disqualifications can be applied.

States have the option to reduce certain lifetime disqualifications to a minimum disqualification period of 10 years if the driver completes a driver rehabilitation program approved by the State.

GENERAL INFORMATION ABOUT CANADA'S COMMERCIAL LICENSES

To ensure highway safety and to assist commercial motor vehicle drivers and operators, Canada developed the National Safety Code for Commercial Motor Vehicles (NSC). The NSC consists of 16 individual Standards which cover every element of driver qualification and vehicle operation and maintenance. Every province and territory in Canada has implemented these Standards within its own jurisdiction, with some local variations (such as, the use of alphabetic as opposed to numeric class designations), so that the truck and bus industries will be more uniformly regulated across the country. Canada does not issue a separate CDL per se. Instead, Canadian drivers are issued a "Classified" driver license, in conformity with the NSC. This license defines what "class" of vehicle may be driven and substantiates that the driver has met requirements similar to those met by U.S. CDL holders. As such, a Canadian license with the appropriate "class" is the single driver's license for operation in the United States by Canadian commercial drivers. Also, Canadian commercial drivers are prohibited from obtaining any driver's license from a State or other licensing jurisdiction of the United States. Canada extends similar reciprocity to holders of CDLs issued by the 50 States and the District of Columbia.

Canadian drivers' licenses are issued according to the type of vehicle to be driven. A driver's license must match the type of vehicle being driven. While a Canadian driver may have only one driver's license, a second license may be permitted if it is a motorcycle learner's permit.

CANADA'S DRIVER LICENSE CLASSES

The NSC establishes a Classified Driver Licensing System which is comprised of seven distinct classes, each designating a certain type of vehicle in accordance with the degree of capability necessary for its operation. A brief description follows.

Class of License	Type of Vehicles Allowed	May Also Drive Vehicles in Class
1	Any tractor semi-trailer or truck-trailer combination	2, 3, 4, and 5
2	Any bus of any seating capacity (some jurisdictions may distinguish between school bus and transit bus operations)	4 and 5
3	Any single vehicle with 3 or more axles or combination of vehicles provided the towed unit does not exceed 10,140 pounds (4,600 kg.)	5
4	Any bus having a seating capacity of not more than 24 passengers; any taxi or ambulance	5
5	Any 2-axle single vehicle or combination of 2-axle towing vehicle and a towed unit that does not exceed 10,140 pounds (4,600 kg.); any recreational vehicle, any bus, taxi or ambulance without passengers; any moped (not motorcycle), any self-propelled road building machine used for grading or paving highways or other construction work, excluding construction vehicles with more than 2 axles other than a grader or 3-axle compactor.	—
6	Motorcycles, motorscooters and minibikes	—
7	Learner's/Instructional Driver License (Requires the holder to be accompanied by a driver holding the class of license required to operate the vehicle in which training is being given.)	—

NOTE: Drivers of vehicles equipped with air brakes must have a "Z" endorsement on their Canadian driver's license.

GENERAL INFORMATION ABOUT MEXICO'S COMMERCIAL LICENSE

Mexican drivers who hold the new Licencia Federal de Conductor issued by the Mexican Federal Government have met requirements similar to those met by U.S. CDL holders and may operate in the U.S. on the same terms as persons who hold CDLs. The new Licencia Federal de Conductor can be recognized by the medallion in the upper left-hand corner containing the Mexican national symbol of an eagle with a serpent. The words "Licencia Federal de Conductor" and logo "Secretariat of Communication and Transportation (SCT)" are also on the front of the license. Mexico will extend similar reciprocity to holders of CDLs issued by the United States and the District of Columbia. Also, a Mexican driver holding a Licencia Federal de Conductor will be prohibited from obtaining any driver's license from a State or the District of Columbia. Some Mexican drivers have been issued Nonresident CDLs by the States. These drivers may continue to operate in the U.S. until the Nonresident CDL expires or until he/she obtains a Licencia Federal de Conductor. No new Nonresident CDLs were issued after April 1, 1992.

The SCT issues the Federal License in 5 categories, as follows:

Class of License	Type of Vehicles Allowed
Category "A"	Authorizes the holder to operate commercial charter and passenger buses; i.e., intercity buses, charter buses and tour buses.
Category "B"	Authorizes the holder to operate different types of commercial freight trucks, including combination vehicles; i.e., tractor-trailer, truck trailers, doubles and triple-trailers (excluding hazardous and hazardous waste materials).
Category "C"	Authorizes the holder to operate commercial trucks with 2 or 3 axles; i.e., single unit vehicles (excluding hazardous and hazardous waste materials).
Category "D"	Authorizes the holder to operate automobiles and small buses which do not exceed 7,716 pounds (3,500 kg) or have a capacity to carry no more than 13 passengers (including the driver who also serves as a tour guide) for purposes of tourism.
Category "E"	Authorizes the holder to operate vehicles that transport hazardous and hazardous waste materials.

Note: The Mexican Licencia Federal de Conductor must show each class of vehicle which the license holder wishes to operate.
